Pro referral contractor reviews

· Buzz Starter • #1 • Nov 8, 2017 Bus Was Established with San Depot Pro Referrals. Does anyone here have any experience of this lead generation product? How many points do your typical leads cost from them? I know it is probably a mix of unrealistic budgets as well as those who understand what you are willing to pay for and pay fair pricing as well. Just want to see what everyone's experiences have been with it. Thanks in advance! - I had no idea they have a program like this, but in my case it wouldn't make me any good anyway, when I need paint I buy it from paint store not from HD. Hopefully someone else here will be able to help you with that question. - Buzz Starter • #3 • November 9, 2017 I think try to consider and you get to use your product, but not for you. I will still be using SW and BM for projects. They just give information to the customer. Everything else is done through the contractor as if you've got the lead on your own. - Well, I'm kinda curious to see if anyone else is using that program and with what the result. - I signed us a few years ago, it was called the Red Beacon I believed. We get a ton of clues, most things we're not interested in I would say are 1 out of every 15 leads jobs we're closing in on. It also leads me to uber being selective, someone needs to be in the right to be able to do so. I'm not sure what or how their points work, I believe it's tied to your color and supply purchase. The format is actually very clean and easy, I tied it to my cell phone and the clue is texted to me with a link to their pro referral site. If you sign up, please update us on how it works for you. Sent from my iPhone using Taptalk - Thanks to your input mizzou, so if you get closer on leads derived from HD will you have to use bears and their products or can you buy paint elsewhere? It makes sense if they are giving you a lead they would expect you to use your product correctly. · · Buzz Starter • #8 • Nov 9, 2017 Once you accept anything that goes ahead, it is between you and the homeowner. You can use whatever product you want. HD stays out of it. The points system is tied in Home Depot purchases, but that's not just limited to color. You get points for anything and everything to buy on HD - So you're working on a point system to get leads and how many points will they not show you for the lead? How many points do you get from the purchase? Is it a point spent per dollar? - I have 39000 points at the moment. It costs 60 points per lead you get 2 points per dollar spending points finished you don't need to use their colors. Keep in mind that most leads will be dead sets when using Behr Paint. You shouldn't even be the cheapest. Most times I'm the one that charges more. Paint Department Work Know the people. People behind pro desks get to know. They know us so we get the lead for drivl repair, installing hardwood floors. etc. It's been For us. - Buzz Starter • #11 • November 10, 2017 How many times do you get the lead. I'm doing nothing a few days now and so far. · 4 this week from Monday. Also keep in mind that I have been with them since Home Depot took over the Red Beacon. I have some referrals from my clients and they know I'll call the lead given to me. We have also worked for some employees of Home Depot. Send me an email at [protected email] and I'll indicate something else. Sounds like a good program to generate new leads, it's too bad it's not available in Canada. It's a good place to generate leads and get repeating customers. Most are willing to wait on you too. You want something that did it yesterday, but you get that everywhere. I don't get many tyre kicker from there. For painting you can get anything from the new construction or bathroom ceiling. Get more leads from Home Depot Pro Referrals Why you need to use Home Depot Pro referrals Can sometimes be difficult to reach a variety of customers. You don't know where to look or the business can slow down right now. However, there's a way to quickly find customers who need your specific set of skills for your renovation, repair or installation projects! If you work in the construction industry, Pro Referral is the app for you! Pro Referral, developed by Ceredbion in 2008 and acquired by Home Depot in 2012, is an application that allows professional contractors and customers to connect in a simple yet efficient way. What exactly is Pro Referral? Pro Referrals is a Home Depot-powered app that lets you create a public profile to connect with various potential customers. On your profile, you write about your company, your mission statements, your specialty, and your niche. You can also post a portfolio of your previous work! When a customer needs a job, they can browse through profiles of various contractors and send job requests to some of them. Even if you don't always get a job, you still rule in more customers and get more exposure. There are many features that make Pro Referrals one of the best ways to connect with customers: connect very easily with prospects. Pro Referrals provides an in-app chat function that allows you to easily access potential customers, or you can use phone numbers on their profiles to access them. Reach customers near you. You and your prospects can see each other's common place. That way you can live in the area in which you want to work. Organize your schedule. Track the jobs you all accept in one place! You can keep your calendar organized and know when you have or don't have availability. Get the lead. Pro Referral sends leads to your project so you never get out of work! The lead system is point-based: You are your regular home Convert the purchases to digits, and those points allow the app to send you leads! What are the benefits? Now that you know what pro referral is, you probably want to know why you need it Joint. Just as there are plenty of features, there are plethora benefits to become pro! Use it for free. As outlined above, the app is free for you! You just convert buying your routine into points for clues and that's it! Using Pro Referrals is no money out of your pocket. Use the site or mobile app. While some people may prefer to work from the computer, you can also use the mobile app! This way, you can connect with customers and track your jobs on the go. Get more exposure. People can easily check your profile and see the work you've done. Even if you don't win every penny, potential customers are still looking at your profile. Who knows? They might even come back to you at a later time for another project! Choose your job. When you receive requests, you can accept them, or you can choose the pass option to stay tuned. You have the power to decide which jobs you want to do and which people are not for you. Keep your earnings. Every penny you earn from your leads is a penny in your pocket! Pro referrals take no deduction from your job. Gain credibility. Customers need to know how to become a Pro, approving your application. That places more credibility in and already on you of yourself! Your profile also shows your ratings and reviews, so customers know you'll also get the hard work you've done! What are the requirements? Becoming a Pro is actually quite simple! You should get some criteria before being accepted: complete the application on the Pro referral site. [Link to application] Make sure you can provide proof of general liability. Grant a state license (depending on your state and service provided) pass a background and identity test. Provide a profile picture. This is it! After submitting your application, you just wait to be approved by the Pro Referral Team. Once you've accepted, you can start following those leads! What do I do next? To maximize your company's efficiency, there are some apps you should use with it. Pro Extra allows you to automatically save your receipts from your Home Depot purchase and helps streamline your BusinessQuickbook is an accounting software that helps you manage your money and FinancialsZen basically integrates Pro Extra and QuickBook, ending the manual data entry process to save you time and money.
